

Breakaway Media, LLC, is a woman- and service-disabled veteran-owned small business (WOSB and SDVOSB) registered with Central Contracting Office of the Department of Defense

What We Do...

We publish high-quality medical journals, training supplements, handbooks, and digital products for physicians and other healthcare providers working in austere and remote environments. Breakaway Media has established an international reputation for excellence in our core areas of expertise, and we are distinguished by our commitment to featuring the highest-quality authors and content, pursuing topics and developing innovative print and electronic products that meet clearly defined market and educational needs.

How We Do It...

The publisher works with each client to ensure that the right team is assembled to meet that client's unique needs. Our staff can provide expert copy editing, fact checking, copy writing, marketing, and visual design depending on the needs of each client.

Our editorial staff have worked with the major publishers, to include Elsevier and Wiley, on projects in the fields of emergency medicine, nursing, orthopedic medicine, surgery, genetics, psychiatry, and all other aspects of healthcare.

Our copy editors are proficient in the areas of philosophy, information technology, advertising, and many other fields of the arts or social sciences.

Our production/graphics and design experts can create and design new materials ranging from books, brochures, catalogs, handbooks, and periodicals, to a broad range of digital visual graphics. With their proven proficiency in marketing and visual design they will create your publications and supporting advertising materials for successful campaigns. Breakaway Media
